

SuperCharger & “That’s How We Roll”

The Copenhagen based rock and roll band SuperCharger has released the “difficult 2nd album”, as follow up to the top-rated and award-winning debut; “Handgrenade Blues”(2009).

The now 6 boys in SuperCharger is yet again ready and on top with freshly new songs, new shows and just as motivated to set their goals on shaking up the rock and roll history.

“That’s How We Roll” will most definitely have many SuperCharger fans prick up their worn out Rock and Roll ears one extra time, due to the variety and the more comprehensive sound on these 12 new tracks!

As the debut simply was Hard Rock and as the band proudly presented it; without one single ballad, the 6 boys has this time dared showing other sides of their musically abilities. With references to the individually inspirations in music throughout life, SuperCharger both integrate Country and RailRoad Blues to their Rock & Roll, though without leaving the high tempo they are known for.

The album is produced by Kristian Thomsen (Oliver Weers, Hush) and co-produced by Swedish writer Anders Ringman (Chris Laney), with special focus on vocal arrangements. The track “Redemption Song” is featuring Mia Goldheart from Swedish “Crucified Barbara”.

SuperCharger has through the last 2 years been a popular live act, well known for their highly energetic stage performances. This including 4 headlining DK Tours, various festival appearances, both in and outside DK, and as main support for acts such as D.A.D., Nashville Pussy and Mustasch. SuperCharger therefore is a band with much and solid live experience and definitely should be seen on stage.
